LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICIAL'S TEXT

COUNTY ATTORNEY APPEALS TO PUBLIC TO RESPECT THE LAW.

WHILE COUNTRY AT WAR

Duty Of Every Citizen To Respect
The Law And Public Order.

To the people of Ohio County:
At a time like this—when we are in the midst of a world war, and compelled to face the most powerful foreign enemy we have ever faced, it is highly important and necessary that we come close together in our local affairs and as far as we possibly can, get along in harmony, friendship and accord.

President Wilson has just said in a public speech that "we have not yet realized the sacrifices and sufferings that are before us." Judging from that statement, we are facing perils of which we have not yet become aware. Almost the whole world is at war and we have lately gotten into it ourselves. It is the most deadly and destructive war the world has ever had.

Already Congress is about to pass a law conscripting a large number of the best and strongest men of the United States for active service on the battle-fields, a thing that has never happened before in the history of our country, at the very beginning of a war.

Such times as this put everybody upon his very keenest mettle. The wives, mothers and sisters of this county will be put into a condition of nervousness and excitement most unusual and, for that reason, are certainly entitled to have local conditions made and kept as quiet and peaceable as possible.

The older men, compelled as they will be to sacrifice their strong sons and thereby be made to assume more and greater responsibilities, are entitled to have such condition of law and order and good government as will give them a clear chance to stand strong under these added obligations.

The churches, schools, Sunday schools, school houses and other meeting places where men and women will, from time to time, congregate for religious worship and for other public and necessary purposes have, more than ever before, a part to play in the affairs of the people. If there was ever a time when religious worship was useful, and when such worship and other gatherings of the people for public purposes ought to be well attended, encouraged and respected, it is now.

The needs of the Government and the needs of the families and of the people generally are absolutely imperative, not only with respect to finance but with respect to good morals and good order.

The most common violations of law and order at this time of the year are the blind thieving of whiskey and beer, disturbing religious worship, and public assemblies by loud talking and noiseless running in and out of the meeting places, breaches of the peace, by quarrels and fights, desecration of infant children, pistol carrying, shooting upon public highways and running horses in crowds, exceeding the speed limit in automobiles, some merchants keeping open on Sunday, furnishing loafing places and in some instances operating punch boards and other gambling devices, thereby sapping up large quantities of money which needed for more substantial purposes, and the age old crime of common larceny or vagrancy, certainly criminal at this time. Such violations of the law as these are wholly unnecessary and inexcusable, as they hinder busy men in the much needed pursuit of their business and when reported will be properly and vigorously prosecuted.

When substantial citizens are called upon for jury service in cases involving these violations they will, by their verdicts, assist in the prompt application of penalties provided, for it is to their interest to put a stop to it.

Compromises will not be tolerated except in cases where the very best interests of the community would be substantially served thereby. Men who indulge in violating the law in the respects mentioned at a time when their good conduct and right living are so urgently needed as at this time are not entitled to compromise for their misbehavior, and the substantial citizens of the community will be opposed to compromises and in favor of a strict enforcement of the law. Good citizens are opposed to bad conduct, and opposed to anything that encourages such conduct.

The shock to mothers, wives and sisters, the interference with the affairs of busy men, and the hindrance of the public good caused by the violations of law in the respects above mentioned cannot be tolerated. Private inclination to error and personal indulgence, must yield to public welfare.

Many strong men have already gone to the army, and many others will go later. Everybody is, or ought to be, busy trying to produce something for the support of those dependent upon him, or trying in some honorable way to do his part for the welfare of his country. This is no time for the peace and good order of the county to be interfered with by bad boys, or bad men, nor is it any time for such persons to be lying in jail. There is a man in jail here now sent to serve for more than six months for several violations of the liquor laws; another is in jail on nine charges of violating the liquor law, and if convicted in all of them it would take him a year to serve his time in jail; one is in jail on a peace warrant; three are being held just waiting for the Grand Jury to convene, being unable to give bond; two of them charged with deserting their own infant children and failing to provide for their support. The families of all these men need their services, yet the jail has them, and is ready to receive as many others as feel like they cannot behave themselves without being put there. But useful and orderly men and boys will be given the greatest possible protection and encouragement.

Good order and prompt enforcement of the law must be the rule in Ohio County. A. D. KIRK, County Attorney, Ohio County.

NAVY YARD BUILDING IS PREY TO FLAMES

New York, May 16.—Fire of unknown origin, which started shortly before 11 o'clock last night in the five story brick receiving building at the New York Navy Yard, destroyed that structure and caused a loss which probably will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

On both sides of the ordinance pier leading to the building are moored ironclad steamships. Those, however, were not damaged.

A large quantity of clothing and other supplies were burned. A number of navy prisoners were removed under guard during the fire.

The fire, discovered by a watchman, was not checked until it had burned for an hour and reduced the receiving building to ashes.

Rear Admiral Fisher, commandant of the yard, and the other officers aided the bluejackets in fighting the flames.

"I thank you most heartily, Billy for the mountains."

TEEDY WRIES LANGLEY

Washington, May 16. Representative John W. Langley, who telegraphed to Col. Roosevelt that Kentucky members of Congress from the mountain districts voted unanimously to send him to France today received the following telegram from Oyster Bay.

"I thank you most heartily, Billy for the mountains."

Editor Running Blot.

Like another Martin Kohler we have found our old machine, the Hartford Republican, again, and for one brief week we shall run it wide open.

It has gone to fight the Kaiser and Tinsley has gone to the locks to fight too— we mean to fish, and left us in unrestricted charge, and we are going to use it to laud our friends and lambast our enemies.

To an ex-editor the opportunity to have a newspaper say of just what he darned pleased about a lot of people and things and have the other fellow do the fighting and answer the illus comes only once in a lifetime and we are going to use it.

Do not let any nook or cranny of this issue of the paper escape you we are going to scatter the necessary paragraphs around so as not to too suddenly shock the reader.

Unsatisfactory Arrangements With Coal Operators Prompted Purchase.

One Vessel Has Brush With U-Boat.
Another Escorts Liner Through Danger Zone.

Announcement was made yesterday that the Illinois Central Railroad Company has taken over the Central Coal & Iron Company's mines at Central City, which have a capacity of 1,600 tons of car coal daily, and that the deal whereby the railroad acquires title to the property will be consummated within a few weeks. The consideration involved is said to approximate $500,000.

Unsatisfactory arrangements with coal operators of Western Kentucky as to the railroad company's coal supply are said to have prompted purchase of the mines. The car-coal capacity of them lies is exclusive of chute coal and it is the intention of the new owner to increase the output to 2,000 tons a day. Attorneys of the Illinois Central are examining titles and records preliminary to official transfer of the property.

The railroad took over the mines April 15 and has been operating them since that time. The Central Coal & Iron Company still owns two groups of mines in Western Kentucky, the Render mines and the Echols mines. Supt. T. E. Hill, of the Illinois Central, said last night the railroad company uses 1,600,000 tons of coal annually on its lines south of the Ohio River, and that the output of the Central City mines would supply about one-third of the tonnage necessary. Other coal used by the road will be purchased from Western Kentucky coal operators, he said.

The Illinois Central has been buying coal by contract from Western Kentucky operators for several years at a cost of $1.05 1/2 per ton. The contract continues in effect until April 1, 1918. Its terms, however, provide that the coal supply of the railroad be apportioned each year to various mines in the field. Officials of the railroad said the company was at the mercy of the operators because of the apportionment clause and that the coal mines were bought in self-defense.

Omar Khayyam won the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs Saturday. 36,000 people cheered the game two year old as it passed under the wire.

"When will you be ready for business?"

"We can start at once," the American commander replied promptly.

This response, so characteristically American, surprised the British commander, who said he had not expected the Americans would be ready to begin work on the side so soon after their long voyage. When he had recovered from his surprise, however, he made a short tour of the destroyers and admitted that the American men looked prepared.

"Yes," replied the American commander, "we made preparations on the way over. That is why we are ready."

Ships Put To Sea.

The equipment on board the destroyers was found to be in excellent condition and remarkably well suited to the requirements on this side of the ocean. In fact, it was said by the British officer that the only thing lacking in the equipment of the American sailors was heavier clothing. It appears that the Americans were wearing clothing too light for the varying conditions of weather they will encounter in these waters. This lack, however, was quickly provided for.

W. H. MOORE DEAD.

W. H. Moore, familiarly known to everybody in Ohio county as Billie Moore, died at the residence of his son here Thursday morning of arsenic poisoning. Mr. Moore was one of the best known as well as one of the best citizens of Ohio county. He was for many years traveling agent for John A. Heits & Sons an Evansville lumber company, later was engaged in the meat business here, but for a number of years past had not been engaged in active business. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery Saturday morning. Mr. Moore's wife who died some years ago was, before her marriage to a Miss Dinkie, a sister of Mr. Jake Duke of this city. Mr. Moore leaves three sons John T. of Elizabethtown, Ed P. temporarily of Akron, Ohio and William of New York City. John T. was with a fishing party at Grassy creek in this county and reached his father's bedside before his death. Telegrams were sent to Ed and William and they are expected here for the funeral.

Cigarette Takes Toll of Barn.

A negro boy, a cigarette and a match was an unfortunate combination that cost Deputy Sheriff S. A. Bratcher about $800, Saturday afternoon. The boy had gone to take Mr. Bratcher's cow to the pasture on his farm about two miles north of town on the Sulphur Springs road, and while at the barn, feeling the itch of the smoke bug, scratched a match lighted a cigarette and incidentally the barn, and the blaze was discovered too late to be extinguished. The loss consisted of the barn, some corn and about ten tons of hay altogether worth about $800. No insurance.

BILL TO GIVE BRITISH WOMEN VOTE INTRODUCED

London, May 15.—Walter H. Long, Secretary of State for the Colonies, introduced in the House of Commons to-day the franchise bill which embodies the recommendations of the Speaker's electoral reform conference. The bill provides for the enfranchisement of women, which now depends upon the vote of the two houses of Parliament.

Mr. Long explained that the Government adhered rigidly to the recommendations of the conference and proposed to fix the age at which women would be qualified to vote at thirty. He said the Government would do its best to bring about the adoption of this reform, but that it and the question of proportional representation would be left to the House.

Speaking as chairman of the Imperial War Conference, Mr. Long emphasized the importance of disposing of the electoral problems at the earliest possible moment in order that the country's activities should not be hampered in the struggle after the war by a controversy over democratic questions.

Under the bill the qualifications for men are simplified. Provision is made for giving the vote to soldiers, sailors and absentees, and all elections are to be held on the same day. The speaker will be chairman of the boundary commission for redistribution of seats.

Death of Well Known Minister.

Rev. Eldred B. Pate died at the home of his son in Madisonville on the morning of May 12, from a rumplesaint of troubles that had afflicted him for a number of years. Burial was at his old home at Hawesville, in Dugger county. Rev. Pate has been actively engaged in the ministry of the M. E. Church South for thirty years when he voluntarily was superannuated by 1912. Rev. Pate was at one time Pastor of the Methodist church here and has many friends in Ohio county who will bear with sorrow of his death.

FIX MAXIMUM GRAIN PRICES

ACTION INTENDED TO FORE-
STALL FEDERAL INTERVEN-TION, IS BELIEF.

SPECULATION WILL END

No Trading in May Options of Wheat, Corn or Oats Is Permitted.

Chicago, May 15.—Action which it is said, will remove the element of speculation from the grain market, and which, it is believed, will forestall any step by the Federal Government, was taken here today at a meeting of representatives of the primary grain exchanges of the country.

It was accomplished by fixing a maximum price for wheat futures at or under which sales may be made, but no buying will be permitted except to close out accounts. No trading in May options of wheat, corn, or oats is permitted except to close deals.

The same principle was extended to July and September oats and corn in principle, but action was not taken, as it was held unnecessary at this time. The delegates simply agreed to extend the embargo if necessity arises. Grain prices were lower to-day.

Milling interests were represented at the meeting, and the grain exchanges of Chicago, New York, Toledo, Winnipeg, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Omaha and St. Louis. The following statement of the proceeding was issued:

"It is the consensus of opinion of the representatives of the various Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce assembled that the unusually high prices are due—

Production Limited.

"To the suburban production of grain and foodstuffs generally the world over during the preceding year and the very unfavorable outlook for the growing crops as forecast by our Agricultural Department.

"To the breakdown in the system of distribution, because of the inability of railroad companies to render normal or efficient service, the relation of supply to demand being so close that extremely good facilities should have been available when in fact the railroads never—in their history rendered a service so low in efficiency.

"With over half the world at war, the demands from all importing countries are abnormally high. This, intensified by our own industrial activity, naturally has increased the demand for foodstuffs.

"To the commendable efforts of the officials at Washington to stimulate production which have been misinterpreted not only by our own people, but by foreign governments as meaning that we were in a condition bordering on famine. National conditions admitted of high prices, but the hysteria is absolutely responsible for the inflated value now prevailing.

System Committed.

"While these extraordinary conditions have temporarily disarranged our grain markets, it is the unanimous opinion that the system of handling grain in the usual course through boards of trade and chambers of commerce is the most economical way of handling the business and, while speculation has been more or less prevalent, it has little to do with present conditions. It must be remembered that these great market places are the development of thousands of years of experience and are the only known means of distributing farm products of this country, and until a better substitute has been devised their operations should not be interfered with.

"The action of the directors of the Chicago Board of Trade and the other exchanges in fixing the maximum price of wheat and the restrictions limiting the buying to the closing up of existing contracts has been unanimously agreed by the delegates and action has been taken, continuing the maximum prices and restrictions until further notice.

"Exchanges also are prepared to take similar action with regard to corn and oats, should necessity arise."

FARMERS SEEK LOANS FROM FEDERAL BANK

7,000 APPLY FOR LOAN FROM KENTUCKY, TENNESSEE, INDIANA AND OHIO.

Seven thousand farmers in Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana and Ohio have made requests for loans from the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, according to L. H. Clore, treasurer of that institution, who in an interview describes the forms of agricultural development to be aided by the bank. In this description he enumerates the purchase of bonds for farming purposes, the purchase of equipment, fertilizer and livestock necessary for the proper and reasonable operation of the farm, provision for buildings and improvements and the payment of existing debts.

"We find," said Mr. Clore, "many deserving farmers short on finance, who are handicapped in their farming operations and are not able to do the things their intelligence dictates to them. In co-operating with them we are extremely anxious that they not only take care of their immediate needs and that they serve their country well by doing everything possible, toward increased crop production in this great time of peril, but that they build well, realizing that the production of the soil depends upon the treatment given the same by using scientific and common-sense methods, applying to the land all fertilizer that can be scraped together from the horse stables, cow stables, feed lots, straw stacks, poultry houses, etc."

"Never was there a time when the use of the proper commercial fertilizer, properly applied, using the various elements that the soil requires, should be encouraged more than at the present time. We can safely say that the home of the plant, the soil, must be ideal if we expect to harvest bumper crops. It must have plenty of ventilation and be physically constructed for moisture capacity with an abundance of available plant food."

"The importance of good seed, properly adapted, must not be lost sight of; in fact, the selection of varieties adapted to climate and soil conditions millions of dollars can be added to the farmers' income. It would be as impossible for a scrub team, with all of the ailments that usually connect with the same, to draw 100 bushels of corn to the market as for the scrub kernel of corn to produce 100 bushels of corn to the acre."

"Livestock many farmers are wanting to purchase additional livestock, which we consider a patriotic ambition at the present time. If the same is properly cared for, and the proceeds of the farm fed to the livestock, the farm will yield greater returns than would be possible if the products were sold on the market. It was 673,947,000 bushels."

and by the return of the manure to the land the farm will be greatly benefited.

"Machinery.—Due to the scarcity of farm labor, many farmers are wanting to buy improved machinery so that the work can be done at the proper time and in a better way. After the purchase of such machinery we insist that the life of the same, as well as the satisfaction caused by the use of the same, can be more than doubled by the proper care and housing of the same. In the future machinery must not be found under the old apple tree or in the fence corner."

"Paying Off Existing Debts.—This bank does not desire to cripple any of the present agencies that are loaning money. Many of the banks are co-operating with us by having some member acting as secretary-treasurer of the local Farm Loan Association. The farmer is entitled to a loan at 5 per cent., with the privilege of applying 1 per cent. to the principal under the amortization plan. This will place the intelligent, capable farmer with limited means on a sound working basis. We feel that the development of agriculture will be greater in the future than it has been in the past, and that the Farm Loan Act will have contributed a satisfactory share toward this end."

WINTER WHEAT CROP IS VERY SHORT IN U. S.

In the face of a threatened world food shortage the American winter wheat crop shows the lowest condition recorded since 1888 and promises a smaller yield than any other since 1904.

Agricultural conditions otherwise are good, the Department announced and it recalled that although the winter wheat crop of 1912 showed an equally discouraging outlook the total production of crops that year was the greatest on record.

The winter wheat crop, planted last autumn was one of the largest acreages ever sown to that grain, but which met disaster in several important producing States from severe winter conditions, now promises a harvest of 366,116,000 bushels this year. That quantity was forecast Tuesday by the Department of Agriculture which based its estimate on the condition of the crop May 1 as reported by the thousands of agents throughout the grain belt. A month ago a crop of 430,000,000 bushels was forecast. Production last year was 481,744,000 bushels, and in 1915 it was 673,947,000 bushels.

ACCUSE PRODUCE MEN OF FORMING TRUST

JEFFERSON COUNTY GROWERS ORGANIZE TO ELIMINATE MIDDLEMEN.

A constitution declaring war on produce and commission houses of Louisville and charging that these houses "have formed a trust in an effort to control food crops and prices for the next year," has been adopted by farmers of Jefferson County for the organization of the Fern Creek Growers' Association.

The association's object is to eliminate the Louisville "middlemen" from their dealings, and to establish offices for selling the products of Jefferson County farmers direct to the householder.

In a statement made at the organization meeting of the association, held Saturday night at Union Hall, Fern Creek, J. H. Berry, fruit grower, and president of the association, declared commission houses and produce men of Louisville have formed a "trust."

He said farmers of the county no longer regard the dealers of this city individually, but have been compelled to see them collectively. Mr. Berry declared that, in an effort to secure control of Louisville's food supply coming from Jefferson county, the produce dealers have been making contracts with farmers for crops that will not be out of the ground for months.

Last year, he averred, farmers of Jefferson county, thru the work of the so-called "trust," lost more than $30,000, while the "trust" reaped a harvest from the under-paid-for crops.

In a statement made last night, Mr. Berry declared farmers were told by Louisville dealers that they would be compelled to sell their output to them again this year, as they could not get enough cars to take away their products on account of the car shortage.

Mr. Berry was appointed by the association to interview Brent Arnold, freight manager of the Big Four, and will confer with him this morning.

When dealers from Chicago came to Louisville seeking to purchase food supplies, Mr. Berry charged, they were stopped by representatives of Louisville middlemen and sold products of Jefferson county farmers at exorbitant prices. The farmer, he said, was not given the slightest opportunity of even talking to out-of-town purchasers, and turned over his entire crop to the middlemen.

After addresses were made by other growers, the farmers drew up a constitution for the new association, declaring the only remedy for these evils was the elimination of alleged "trust" and the disposal of their products direct to the consumer.

One of the chief objects of the association will be to reduce the present high cost of foodstuffs to the consumer. Mr. Berry has asked the cooperation of the Louisville public in this campaign.

A mass-meeting, at which final plans will be outlined, will be held Thursday night at Union Hall. Roy Roman, of Fern Creek, is secretary of the association.

Last year, according to Mr. Berry, strawberries were purchased by Louisville dealers from the farmer at eighty cents a crate of seven gallons. The dealer then sold them to Louisville consumers at $2.50 and to Chicago consumers at $3.50. The association plans to give them to Louisville consumers this summer at $1.50 and still eliminate the great loss the farmers suffered last year.

Every variety of food—potatoes, onions, corn and fruits—will be included in reductions which the association hopes to make.

PROCESS OF RAISING SHIPS SOLVED, GERMAN REPORT

Amsterdam, May 14.—The problem of salvaging ships sunk by submarines is solved, according to the Hamburg Fremdenblatt, which says that German naval engineers have perfected a process of raising ships from the bottom of the sea. Details are withheld, except that specially equipped salvage vessels will be employed and that they will be able to operate even in stormy weather.

The Fremdenblatt, which, as an example, puts the value of the ships sunk in February alone at what it calls the moderate figure of $180,000,000, says that the number of ships sunk and their favorable position in most cases for raising guarantee for many years after the war plenty of work and a rich profit.

Coal Need Not Come High.

Important and interesting is the report of the Federal Trade Commission that there is no existing or threatened shortage in the coal supply and that exorbitant prices are without warrant.

Urgent is the commission's warning to the public not to favor the speculators by being fooled into a panic-producing scramble or overbuying.

After calling forcefully for the elimination of the element of speculation from the situation, and as a means to that end, the commission points out "the imperative need of keeping coal moving from the point of production to its final destination, and of preventing coal cars from being held out of use for the purpose of speculative storage."

Attention to this point, and fulfillment of the commission's promise to expose any unscrupulous wholesaler, jobber or retailer seeking to mislead the public as to the coal supply or the need of exorbitant prices, ought to go far toward clearing up the case of anthracite, its gamblers and its burners.

Child Brought To Life

Quincy, Ill.—Heroic efforts of three Quincy surgeons brought back to life the fifteen-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lake, of Quincy.

The little girl had been suffering from membranous croup. When the three surgeons were called to the residence the child was found in its final dying gasp.

The surgeon's instruments had been left on the kitchen table from a previous visit, and the child, its heart stopped, was hastily carried to the table.

While one of the surgeons made an incision in the neck and cut an opening in the windpipe, another of the trio by moving the arms attempted resuscitation, and in a few seconds the child was breathing again. It is thought she will recover.

200 SALOON KEEPERS IN CHICAGO TO CLOSE UP

Chicago, May 8.—Two hundred Chicago saloonkeepers voluntarily are preparing to allow their licenses to lapse and withdraw from the business because of the prospects of a dry America during the war, according to a report to-day to the City Council Finance Committee from the Controller's office. Under the ordinances these licenses once allowed to lapse, may not be renewed. The annual loss of revenue to the city will be $200,000 the report said.

North Haven, Conn.—"When I was 45 I had the Change of Life which is a trouble all women have. At first it didn't bother me but after a while I got bearing down pains. I called in doctors who told me to try different things but they did not cure my pains. One day my husband came home and said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash?' Well, I got them and took about 10 bottles of Vegetable Compound and could feel myself regaining my health. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and it has done me a great deal of good. Any one coming to my house who suffers from female troubles or Change of Life, I tell them to take the Pinkham remedies. There are about 20 of us here who think the world of them."—Mrs. FLORENCE ISSELLA, Box 197, North Haven, Conn.

FRIDAY MAY 18

If Teddy gets into the scrap in Europe he will make a rush for the battle around Bulecourt.

The food speculators come in for a good deal of abuse but the price of food stuffs continue to soar.

The high cost of living is just now engaging the serious attention of legislative bodies and other assemblies and organizations throughout the country.

The Bowling Green district reports a record crop of strawberries this season. It is refreshing news as this is the first report of a record crop of anything we have heard of since the high cost of living craze struck the country.

In common fairness to an innocent man we want to advise Republican readers that Tinsley cannot be held morally or legally responsible for anything appearing in this issue of the Republican, and if anybody mentioned feels aggrieved and wants to tell the editor he will have to wait till Tinsley goes fishing again, and by that time we hope offenses real and imaginary will be softened by time and barred by limitation.

The food situation in Germany is undoubtedly acute. An attempt to make a further cut in the food ration late in April was about to result in an industrial strike of wide proportions and the government was forced to make concessions from the food stores that it could ill afford, and now with the danger of food exhaustion before harvest the Government does not dare again cut the ration and the Food Dictator standing between the Devil and the deep blue sea is beginning for the privilege of resigning.

The entry of this government into the war in Europe is the most serious venture in our national existence, and our people must prepare themselves to make sacrifices never before demanded of citizens of this Republic. Blood and tears and gold must pay the price of the liberty of our citizens to sail unharmed the seas and trade unhindered in the markets of the world. The Prussian sword has been drawn in mad ambition to conquer the world, and the American government should not if it could shirk its share in defending the liberties of mankind.

We want to call attention of the road authorities to a danger point on the Centertown road near the old Lawrencehouse. The very sharp turn in the public road there is a constant source of danger to motorists who are not familiar with it. A couple of telephones will be erected reading "Traffic Alert" to warn the tourist and traveler. A Mr. Riddell, of Centertown, was come into town over that road Monday night and before immediately with the road shot straight ahead over an embankment fifteen feet into a pond of water, and it was almost a miracle that he was not killed or seriously injured. Fortunately he escaped with slight bruises to himself and small damage to his machine.

The inactivity of Congress in the face of a grave national crisis is worrying the President and the other officials in immediate charge of war preparations. The portent of this attitude of Congress is not difficult of interpretation. It is uncertain of the drift of public opinion. There is no question of the loyalty of the country, but Congress's uncertainty of the ways and means proposed. The levy of a tax wholly without a parallel in the history of the world and the selective draft system need at least time for public opinion to deliberate. There is no use of trying to conceal the fact that there is widespread opposition to both of these measures as they are at present proposed, and the average congressman is human enough to await the word from home, hence the hesitation.

This is the time for patriotism, not for politics, but it is not unfair to call attention to the cause of whatever lack of support popular the government is experiencing now. During the presidential campaign last year the popular cry everywhere was "He Kept Us Out Of War." This cry so often repeated lulled the American people into feeling of false security, and led them to confidently believe the re-election of the President would insure the permanent peace of the country. Now with the grim specter of war rising suddenly before them they are amazed, and unprepared for the sudden and unexpected reversal of the President's policy. However, time and the first bloodshed of American soldiers on a foreign battlefield will arouse the national spirit of patriotism, and prepare the people for a loyal support of the tremendous sacrifices that will be demanded of them.

THE HERALD CRITICAL.

We will charitably assume, that our good neighbor, the Hartford Herald, did not realize the absurdity of its criticism of the Fiscal court for providing the County Court Clerk's office with a book typewriter. There are few if any counties in the State that have not made similar provisions for keeping its public records. A Fiscal court in furnishing a book typewriter to the county clerks office does not do so for the convenience of the Clerk, but to provide a plain and legible record for those who have reason to consult it, and to save the county money in the economy of book space. We are surprised that the Herald writer did not know that the typewriter will pay for itself several times over in the saving of book space and that this is the chief reason all Fiscal courts furnish them to the clerks. An intelligent farmer would revert to the wooden mouldboard or the reap hook as readily as the Modern Fiscal court would waste a public typewriter to the antiquated system of pen records.

The Herald's criticism of the safe in the Sheriff's office is even less excusable. It costs the county about $1,000 to assess the property for taxation and about $200.00 more to have the Sheriff's book made. The safe is for the purpose of fire protection of the Sheriff's book and other public records of that office. If the Court House were to burn but for the protection of the safe the assessment and Sheriff's book would all have to be done over again at the expense of the taxpayers of the county. Peanut politics.

A WORD OF WARNING.

If the temporary Editor of this paper was ever in politics he is now out of it for keeps, but knowing something of the game and feeling some anxiety to see Ohio county remain in the Republican column we want to offer a little plain advice to the candidates before the primary. Now don't take this personal. We have no particular candidate in mind, but we are appealing to each of you.

Party lines hang more loosely than they once did. The people are exercising more independence in voting than formerly. A nomination in Ohio county does not necessarily mean an election. The court house is half full of the opposition now. A nomination to be worth while this year must come clean. It would be better to lose in August than in November. See the people. Urge them to vote for you but treat your opponent on the square. There is another race ahead. This is not a farce that the rules of to-day are being violated, but a serious test enthusiasm becloud your judgment.

Now a word to the voters, and I do one of you. Let us agree that my candidate does unfairly or unfairly misrepresent his opponent that we will reelect such candidate not only by voting against him but by publicly condemning such methods of campaigning.

To the three thousand Republican voters of Ohio county the personal fortunes of my candidate are of small consequence, but the success of the party is of vital interest to us all. Let us have a clean, square race so after the nominations are made all of us including the defeated candidates can join heartily and wholeheartedly in support of the ticket.

OUR PRIMARY TICKET.

It has never been the policy of this paper to tender support to any candidate before the primary but the temporary editor is going to smash all precedents and advise the Republicans of Ohio county whom to support for certain offices.

Assuming the entries are all in we shall frankly counsel the voters to support Arthur Kirk for County Attorney. Kirk is a man of quiet and peaceful taste, and would no doubt be averse to casting his fortunes amid the tumults of war. Now as all county officials are exempt from military service Arthur's re-election to the office of County Attorney would exonerate the unpleasant duty of murdering the Kaiser's subjects as well as relieve him from the embarrassing necessity of a hurried marriage for the purpose of obtaining military exemptions.

For Assessor, provided there are no other announcements, it is the plain duty of every good Republican who votes at all to vote for Dills Ward. If Dills thinks the office is worth making two races for and the other fellow will not make one race for it why don't you vote for the other fellow if you won't vote for Dills.

Then there is our old friend Clem Moxley for Surveyor. Like himself Clem would not take the blue at a beauty show but he has the good qualities. Clem did not exactly seek the office but the office sought him if it was seeking anybody.

Clem is a busy man just now and has been for these many moons. The country is full of widows and to our certain knowledge Clem has seen a host of them, but somehow, we don't know why, Clem is still a busy man. Take care of Clem's race boys. Help the busy man.

Then there is Dr. Riley for Coroner. Dr. Riley is a self-made man—we say this to relieve Uncle John C. of any possible embarrassment—and he deserves well of his fellow citizens. So far as we know the Doctor has conducted inquests in solemn and satisfactory manner and deserves an endorsement at the hands of his party. Beyond the candidates mentioned our mind is not made up but when Tinsley goes on his regular June spree—we mean fishing spree—we will name the rest of the ticket!

PROGRESS OF THE WAR.

Perhaps no other public question more seriously engages the attention of the newspaper reader than speculative comments upon the probable duration of the war and the part the United States may play in its progress, nor is there any other public question so difficult for the newspaper writer to intelligently treat.

While it is possible the end may come within a few months, the best military opinion of both England and France is that it will be drawn out into another year and possibly longer. If the Central Powers can make their food supplies hold out till harvest it is practically certain the war will run at least into the year of 1918.

Present indications point strongly toward the collapse of the Russian Provisional Government, and the Allies have little reason to expect further assistance from that quarter. Italy has from the beginning fought in a half-hearted way and may any day retire from the war. It is not improbable that Turkey and Bulgaria may also quit the game and leave the bloody conflict to be fought out between Germany and Austria on the one side and England and France on the other, with the United States a powerful but yet an ineffective ally. If this condition should develop a prolonged war is a certainty unless the submarines succeed in cutting off England's food supplies and forces her to sue for peace.

In a time of censored news dispatches it is difficult to estimate the volume of shipping being destroyed by submarines but it is undoubtedly great, but information at hand indicates it is not serious enough to break down the English fighting machine, at least during the present year. Much is being written about new methods of combatting the submarine, but the weekly toll of ocean vessels is still large.

If Russia lies down and Germany can draw upon the grain fields of the great Northern empire, then the very existence of England and France will depend upon the aid of the great republic of the West. The next ring and twisting of an army is now in full gear, and the United States will not be able to throw an effective army into Europe before the spring of 1918, but in the meantime the making of an army or a gigantic war will go on in this country. If the necessity conditions and means of transport can be found early in next year this country will pour into Europe a new and numerous army that will determine the issue of the greatest war the world ever saw.

God forbid it be so, but it looks like our Nation's offended honor must be avenged at a tremendous cost in blood and gold.

England, France and America is the new triple alliance that will redraw the boundaries of the earth, but just when the hour will come and what the cost in lives and wealth will be we must leave for the historian of the future to record.

Plan For Farmers' Efforts During Coming Season.

A normal crop of food and feed should be grown in the aggregate, which means a diversity of crop production and not specialization in a few crops. In other words, farmers should grow the same staple crops that they have always grown, but with more efficiency, in order that production may be brought as near the maximum as possible.

Following are the plans offered as suggestions for the agricultural effort in the state for the coming crop season:

1. City people should make their back yard and vacant lot gardens produce as many vegetables as possible.

2. The general farmer should not plunge this year into the growing of truck crops, but should do his utmost in producing staples. The truck farmer should work to his maximum in the production of vegetables for the market garden supply, and the general farmer should see to it that staple foods and feeds (corn, wheat, oats, hay, soy beans, cow peas and livestock) are produced in greater quantity than ever before.

3. Every farmer should have a good home garden which shall produce vegetables for home use, for storage and canning for winter's use, and a surplus to be used in any emergency that may arise.

4. Special attention should be given to the farm poultry yard. The flock should be housed better next winter, so that hens may produce more eggs on less feed than ever before. A little hit of housing will mean a great many more eggs. If possible, add a few more pullets to the flock to be kept over winter. Produce infertile eggs during the summer months. Preserve some in water glass for use next winter.

5. The winter wheat crop is going to be a short one. Every field that can be harvested at near an even break in cost of production should be allowed to stand till harvest. At the present price a field that promises even a small yield per acre should be left for the reaper. Other fields should be put in some other food or feed crop that will mature within the season, such as corn, soy beans, buckwheat, cow peas, millet, sorghum, etc. We recommend especially corn, buckwheat, soy beans or cow peas. Every farm should grow a few acres of soy beans for seed and for food.

(d) Clovers, especially crimson (farmers having crimson clover growing now should be sure to save seed.)

7. Livestock (cattle, hogs and sheep) should be given careful attention. The supply is far under the normal. Large numbers of immature animals, especially hogs, are put on the market today on account of high prices, and many good brood sows that should be kept on the farm are sold. Don't send pigs to market. If you have not the feed to mature them sell them to your neighbor who has. Hogs this year should go to market weighing 200 pounds or over.

Don't sell a brood sow that will raise a litter of pigs. A good sow will produce a thousand to two thousand pounds of pork in a season.

Farmers should refrain from marketing calves. They should be developed to maturity. Any calf calved may be accepted.

8. In our opinion, all kinds of food, feed and livestock will pay unusually well. It is therefore, we believe, the patriotic duty of every farmer to grow at least a normal crop of necessities rather than a large crop of any luxury. In other words, a large crop of tobacco should not be grown at the expense of foods and feeds.

Produce Pork With Less Grain.

Forage crops make cheap pork, because they permit cutting the grain allowance to the minimum. A system of management which will furnish forage through the entire grazing season should be planned early.

It's and bluegrass will furnish pasture early in the spring and may be followed by alfalfa or clover. Hogs have been turned on to alfalfa at the Missouri College of Agriculture as early as April 10, although it will usually be several weeks later before it is ready. Clover will usually be ready for pasture during the last half of May.

These crops must be seeded the year previous to that in which they are to be grazed. Perhaps the best spring sown forage is dwarf rye, rye, or a mixture of rye and oats. Rye may be seeded for hog pasture as early as the ground can be worked at the rate of six pounds per acre. When the season is favorable it will be ready to pasture during the last half of June.

Sorghum will furnish a considerable amount of forage during the hot dry days of summer when other crops are not growing well. If sown the latter half of May or the first of June it should be ready for pasturing in six to eight weeks.

Hogs which have been pastured during the grazing season on crops already mentioned may be fished by allowing them to hog down corn and soy beans. These crops may be grown together or in separate fields. If grown in separate fields they should be arranged so that the hogs can have the run of both fields at the same time, since the two crops make a better ration than either alone.

Experimental results at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station show that, on forage, it required an average of 3.18 pounds of grain to produce one pound of pork, as compared with 5.11 pounds, the average from five dry lot feeding trials conducted under similar conditions. This would mean a saving of 38 per cent. in the amount of grain fed. With hogs worth 10 cents a pound the average return per bushel of corn fed to hogs grazing on forage was $1.84. With hogs at the same price the average return per bushel of corn fed in dry lot was $1.10. These results emphasize the economy of feed grain on pasture.

Boiling Potatoes.

We ought not to go on peeling potatoes as we have been accustomed to do. The supply is short, and if they are to last out till new ones come they must be made the most of.

And in order to do this, they should be cooked in their jackets.

When cooked, the skins can be scraped free from every particle of potato, and nothing is wasted. Also, the valuable mineral salts of the potato, which lie just under the skin, are not lost, as they are when the vegetable is peeled, and then boiled. In Ireland, where the cooking of potatoes is well understood, they are never peeled before cooking.

Steaming is really the very best method of cooking boiled(s)-soil method of cooking, for then there is no chance of their being boiled all to pieces and wasted that way.

If the potatoes are peeled and boiled, save the water in which they were cooked and use it for stock. Never throw it away, for in it will be a considerable amount of flavor and nourishment.

The old idea that potato water is poisonous has long ago been proved quite mistaken.

Control Lice And Mites.

There is nothing that is more detrimental to the health and growth of young chicks than to let parasites gain a foothold in your flock. If you notice them becoming listless, their combs and wattles becoming pale in color and the young birds losing in weight, I advise making an examination of such birds and also of your houses and coops to see if you can discover evidences of either lice or mites. Chicken mites are one of the worst pests found in the poultry yard.

The growth of the young chickens depends upon the digestion and assimilation of nourishing food. The blood carries this nourishment to the various portions of the body, and, as long as mites live upon the body of the chick and remove the blood as fast as it is made, there is little chance of growth. There is great danger of mites, especially in the warmer sections of the country. All coops and perches should be regularly examined and brushed with a solution of three to five parts of kerosene mixed with one part of crude carbolic acid or with some of the reliable commercial products which you see advertised.

Cultivating Potatoes.

Everybody, farmer and city man, is planting potatoes this year; the city man for home consumption, the farmer for the market.

Mr. F. C. Merriman, District Farm Agent at Louisville, publishes the following to potato growers:

During the past two years three very serious diseases have made their appearance, namely, leaf-roll, curly dwarf and the late-bright. The late-bright can be controlled by spraying the crop with Bordeaux mixture, which is inexpensive and easily applied. The leaf-roll and curly dwarf cannot be controlled by spraying; the only known method is that of field selection of the seed at digging time. Unfortunately, this method of seed selection is not generally practiced by the growers in this section.

The "seed selection" for 1917 has been completed, but the warning is sound for next year. Careful preparation of the soil; watchfulness for early development of any disease are measures of precaution. With a few years the potato crop should be large.

Milk Fever.

Milk fever is a rather serious trouble with good cows, as it is said that none but well-bred, heavy-producing cows have it. It seems to be more prevalent among grass-fed cows.

The danger of milk among cows seems to be greatest in late summer or early fall, notably June, July, August and September. The recommendation is to put the cow in the barn and feed dry hay about a week before she comes fresh. Three or four days before calving the cow is given a dose of salts with a little ginger. Another dose is also given five or six hours after the calf is born. A bucket of warm water should be given the cow two or three times a day. She should not be allowed to have cold water for some time.

An Excellent Feed.

Soybean seed is very rich in crude protein and are extremely high in fat and are highly digestible. Feeding experiments have shown soybean seed meal to be slightly superior to cottonseed meal for dairy cows and only slightly inferior to cottonseed meal for fattening cattle. Soybeans are also an excellent feed for horses, sheep, and pigs. It must be understood however that soybean meal is a highly concentrated nitrogenous feed and as such must be fed sparingly—in about the same ratio to other feeds as cottonseed meal is fed.

CAN WIZARD EDISON CURB U-BOAT MENACE?

Can Thomas A. Edison curb the submarine menace? All military authorities now agree that the submarine has placed the Entente Allies, and therefore the United States, in the most terrible danger. If the submarine problem can be solved, then Germany will be defeated.

Neither England nor France has been able to meet this problem. Submarines are more dangerous to-day than ever before. They do not rise to the surface when they torpedo a vessel. Only one foot of the periscope is above water. They are working most terrible havoc, and may isolate Britain if not curbed.

Now it is estimated that Edison, who has been working from eighteen to twenty hours a day, is perfecting an electrical device that he hopes will catch the submarine. If this device is successful the submarine will give notice of its presence and render its whereabouts to watchers on shore far away. That the invention is within the realms of possibility will appear entirely creditable to a generation which has known the wireless and which knows Edison.

Aversion to War.

Until America's relations with Germany became strained, Edison refused to work on weapons of war. His aversion for inventing instruments of destruction was first evidenced in 1895 during some of the crisis of the Venezuelan dispute when there was an epidemic of suggestions regarding the defense of America in case of war.

Some years before Edison had worked with W. Scott Sims on the perfection of a dirigible submarine torpedo boat operated by electricity, but when approached by the Government representatives he refused to co-operate and put all his energies toward the perfection of the electric light.

This torpedo boat was designed principally by Sims, but was made practical by Edison's electrical improvements. It was controlled by electricity and could have been developed into an efficient lighting machine long before the modern submarine torpedoes were made practical.

Edison suggested other ideas for the defense of the United States. Declaring that electricity was America's greatest ally, he said streams of water charged with it could protect any fort from invasion.

Edison also outlined a plan for a flying torpedo boat which could drop bombs on enemy's ships or armies. These were to be small and automatic and could be sent in blocks of hundreds needing no aviator.

At the time of the Spanish-American War Edison again refused to help the United States by inventing a shell to produce light and prevent an unnecessary waste of gunnery.

His objection to taking human life was shown when he refused to help a commission of the State of New York to work out a plan of electrocution except to suggest a way of adjusting the electrodes on the prisoner to make death least painful. He was the only one of twenty inventors to decide on the electrocution machinery who was not present when the first life was taken.

Edison's lifelong aversion to inventing weapons of war is now ended. He knows that his country is in peril; that democracy and civilization are in peril. Until America has won the war he will give every hour of every working day to the perfection of instruments that will help defeat the country that seeks to dominate the world.

Muscle Soreness Relieved.

Unusual work, bending and lifting or strenuous exercise is a strain on the muscles, they become sore and still, you are crippled and in pain. Sloan's Liniment brings you quick relief, easy to apply. It penetrates without rubbing and drives out the soreness. A clear liquid, cleaner than mussel plasters or ointments, it does not stain the skin or clog the pores. Always have a bottle handy for the pains aches of rheumatism, gout, lumbago, gripe, bruises, stiffness, backache and all external pain. At your druggist, 25c.
